25.1 KEY LANGUAGE PRESENT PERFECT WITH MODIFYING ADVERBS

Modifying adverbs give more information about when or if an action happened.

The adverb "already" means that something has happened or been completed, possibly earlier than expected.

"Already" is usually placed before the main verb.
I've already packed my bags,
so I can relax now.

The adverb "just" means "a short time ago."

"Just" is placed before the main verb.
I've just called a cab.
It should be here soon.

The adverb "yet" is used to talk about something that is expected to happen. It is used only in questions and negative sentences.

"Yet" is usually placed at the end of the sentence.
The cab hasn't arrived yet.
I hope I won't be late.

The adverb "still" means an action or situation is ongoing.

"Still" is usually placed after the subject.
The cab still hasn't arrived.
Where can it be?

25.2 REWRITE THE SENTENCES, PUTTING THE MODIFYING ADVERB IN THE CORRECT PLACE

Hi Dad,
My trip to Australia continues to be incredible!
I'm in Sydney and I've already climbed the Harbour Bridge. Another highlight was Bondi Beach, where I learned to surf! I still haven't gone on a boat trip around Darling Harbour. I've just returned from a hiking tour of the Blue Mountains. It was amazing! When I was in Queensland, we swam in the Great Barrier Reef, but I haven't seen any dolphins yet. I still haven't seen a kangaroo, but I hope I will on the long drive to Melbourne.
Love, Anita

HOLIDAY TIPS

Five Things to Do This Summer

By Ian Freshman

1 Snorkeling in the Red Sea
I've loved snorkeling since I was a kid. It's still my favorite hobby and the Red Sea is amazing. It's also fantastic for scuba-diving.

2 Windsurfing in Venezuela
If, like me, you love windsurfing, you should go to Margarita Island, off the coast of Venezuela. With perfect winds, it's a windsurfer's paradise.

3 Hang gliding in Interlaken
Viewing the awe-inspiring scenery from above is the nearest I've been to "hang gliding heaven!" I've just returned from Interlaken and I've already booked my next trip.

4 Safari in South Africa
I haven't been on nearly enough safaris yet. Driving around in a big open vehicle, hoping to see a "big cat," is an exciting experience.

5 Skydiving in Hawaii
I went last year and discovered the ultimate thrill for adrenalin lovers. While you're "diving," keep your eyes open because the view's stunning!
